

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to the autonomous, adaptive control of a network element in a packet-oriented and connection-less communication network, and to the coupling of a plurality of network elements.